In all the history of hand-written books, one of the most distinctive and handsome scripts is that of the abbey of Monte Cassino. This study examines for the first time in detail the development of this script during the abbey's period of greatest power and influence, under Desiderius (abbot 1058-1087) and his successor Oderisius (abbot 1087-1105). The characteristic Cassinese hand had been established long before, but in this period of almost half a century it assumed what is today considered its classic form. The present work rests on a fresh examination of numerous details of the Beneventan (South Italian) script, in aspects incompletely studied before. It aims to provide a new history of Monte Cassino as a writing center in this period and to offer a context for many textually and artistically unique or valuable manuscripts that it produced.
