1. State the goals of documentation.

2. Explain the role of organizational policies and procedures in guiding documentation. 3.

Professional Documentation: Safe, Effective, and Legal

1. Health and Safety Policy. A health and safety policy documents how you will manage health and safety in your business. It should clearly state who does what, how and when. If you have fewer than five employees you don't have to write it down. We can tailor a health and safety policy specifically for your business.

In a legal sense, documentation and record keeping is also there for the protection of the nurse or healthcare professional. A well-kept record can protect the practitioner in instances where the legal defence of their actions is required.

Documentation also ensures a matter of professionalisation and proof of the improvement of practices.

Real time:

nursing documentation entered in a timely manner throughout the shift. Required documentation: minimum documentation required to reflect safe patient care. On admission and at the commencement of each shift, all `required documentation' must be completed to comply with the National Safety & Quality Health Service Standards. There is an expectation that shift required documentation is completed within 3 hours of shift start time.

Safe and appropriate nursing care: When nurses

document the care they provide, other members of the health care team are able to review the documentation and plan their own contributions to safe and appropriate care.

Documentation also provides data for research and workload management, both of which have the potential to improve health outcomes.
